Dave Foutz managed the Brooklyns from 1893 to 1896. He resigned at the end of the 1896 season on account of illness and went to his home in Baltimore, where he died on March 5, 1897. Don't confuse Dave Foutz with Dave Fultz. Fultz never managed Brooklyn and is very much alive.

I have answered this before. The games do not interfere with winning streaks. Chicago Americans won 19 straight in 1906, there being one tie in their run, but no one ever questioned their American League record.

Dear Tom—The Degnon Grays of Long Island City and the Farmers of Glendale recently played a series. The Farmers won the first and the second was pisyed at Glendale later on. With the score 10 to 1 in favor of the Degnons the Farmers go to bat in the last half of the eighth and put over three runs and have only two out when rain stops the completion of the inning. The Degnon Grays fall to publish score of their defeat, but their victory appeared in Monday's morning SUN with score 10 to 1, omitting all mention of runs scored by the Farmers in the eighth. We contend that inasmuch as the Degnons had their half of the eighth the Farmers are entitled to credit for all runs scored in the last half, and that score should appear 10 to 4, irrespective of the fact that inning was incomplete. We also contend that all hilts and runs, &c. scored in this half may be included in our batting averages.

The unpleasant impression created in Australia by certain American boxers and their managers, who showed a lack of sportsmanship, has been largely removed recently by the admirable attitude of Jimmy Clabby and George Chip. These two thoroughgoing Americans showed the Australians that the paltriness of Crouse and others is the exception rather than the rule, and that American boxers as a class are equal in Sportsmanship to the athletes of any country on the globe.
